Institutions Innovation Council – ATMECE has organised a session on “Innovation and Start-Up Ecosystem Enablers” for the students of the institution on 29th August 2022. Mr. Hemanth B R, Assistant Professor, Cambridge Institute of Technology was invited as the keynote speaker.

In the session it was discussed that, an innovation is often a new product, but it can also be a new way of doing something or even a new way of thinking. Innovation is most associated with business and technology, but it happens in any field where people introduce change, including the arts, medicine, politics, cooking, language—even philosophy and religion.

Further, an innovation ecosystem refers to a loosely interconnected network of companies and other entities that coevolve capabilities around a shared set of technologies, knowledge, or skills, and work cooperatively and competitively to develop new products and services.

Also, it was concluded with the discussion on Ecosystem enablers work with startups and facilitate the growth of the innovation ecosystem. Some examples of ecosystem enablers are trade organizations, incubators, accelerators, startup event companies, etc.

A startup ecosystem is formed by people, startups in their various stages and various types of organizations in a location (physical or virtual), interacting as a system to create and scale new start-up companies.

The Session witnessed the active participation of around 60 students. The workshop was concluded with a Q&A session.
